

Why Online Poker Is Bad For You

Tournaments are also held online which allows players from different parts of the world to compete with each other to see who the best is. It is plenty of fun to play poker online however, there are a few drawbacks.

The cons of online poker

1. The game is over very quickly

This has to do with the speed at which the hands are dealt. Wagers are sorted out very quickly without any delays and the game is over within the blink of an eye making it hard for new players especially to enjoy themselves.

2. You can lose money very quickly too

As mentioned above, because of the pace of the game and it being over quickly, you can also lose your money just as quick too especially new players who are not fully familiar with the rules of the game.

3. Problems in understanding what is going on

This again goes hand in hand with the quick nature of the game and players with less experience are often left confused and do not realise what has happened especially if they lose. It can be a frustrating and a very unpleasant experience for them.

4. It is very hard to keep track of your last moves

When you are playing poker in a land based casino, you can easily keep track of the moves you made easily compared to playing online. This can make the game feel dull, boring and not exciting.

5. Internet connection problems, cheating and hard to read other players emotions

When the connection between players is bad, it is very easy to lose connection and since it is done online, players are not in the same room to see what the other is doing making it very easy to cheat. It is also very hard to bluff your opponent when playing online poker simply because you cannot call each out while playing online. Playing in a casino lets one see the emotions of other players and can be able to tell whether they are bluffing or not.

The pros of online poker

Although there are cons when it comes to playing online poker, there are also a few benefits when it comes to playing online.

1. Plenty of online games

There no denying the fact that one has access to a large variety of games when they play online poker compared to playing in a casino. There are practically thousands and thousands of online games to choose from if the correct site is found. Players can open multiple windows on their computer or apps on their phone and play more than one game at a time to boost their winnings.

2. Comfort

Playing online poker is a lot more comfortable than playing it at a land based casino because it can be played on the sofa or in bed. While at home, players do not have to spend money on food and drinks at the bar because they have all that already at home.
